

Paper Made Here

It's important to know where your paper comes from. We believe that in order to ensure the integrity of your company's reputation and the strength of your supply chain, customers should work with a paper company that has:

- A strong track record of environmental, social, and economic performance,
- A proven history of transparent business practices and partners,
- Consistently practiced full disclosure in all elements of their operations and business, and
- A proven history of being a reliable and accountable business partner.

Domtar is proud to be a pioneer in sustainability and transparency in the industry, a North American job creator for thousands, an investor in local communities, and a consistently reliable partner to our customers. As a Domtar customer, you can not only trust that your business is in good hands, but you can be proud to work with us.

For more information, please visit Paper Made Here.

