GET YOUR IN-OFFICE AUDIO VISUAL EXPERIENCE — FROM YOUR HOME OFFICE

EXECUTIVE CONFERENCING EXPERIENCE FROM HOME

Working from home has become the new normal and not only has it forever changed our view of continuity of operations but also the experience of being equipped to work from anywhere. For many of us our days are filled with video conferencing calls and even perhaps more so at the executive and management levels.

Iron Bow has developed a turnkey solution to quickly get your executives and management teams up and running through video endpoints and collaboration solutions offering a richer more premium conferencing experience. Our flexible leasing options and monthly subscription model provides you the hardware and software required for a seamless experience. Requiring only an internet connection and access to power, we can have your users up and running in no time. Our solution can be shipped directly to your end user, complete with tutorials for easy self-installation, providing the same workflow and experience as if you were in your traditional physical office location.

Our team consults with you to define needs and bring you the best audio visual experience – right in your own home office.
