

Office Depot
Digital Publishing
for education

Side by side success

Within a few short months, COVID-19 derailed the well-thought out curriculum plans of K-12 and higher education institutions. The events occurred so suddenly that there was no time to prepare. Online editions of educational materials were limited and rarely mirrored the printed versions.

Now, as the days count down to school, educators grapple with tough decisions around in-person versus online teaching scenarios. Office Depot Digital Publishing for education can help ease the stress, offering educators the best of both worlds with identical versions of printed materials in digital formats.

Switching Between Plans

With curriculums already developed for the classroom, Depot Digital Publishing for education can easily create two plans that run parallel for distance learning and in-class teaching. Working with any Learning Management Systems (LMS), the SaaS model does the heavy lifting, converting materials and preloading relevant Open Education Resources (OER) to the portal.

Instructors can simply send the desired content, video, and other instructional materials to Office Depot Digital Publishing for education to upload within a week. Offering one classroom portal, the same content in print as in a digital replica version helps eliminate confusion and frustration for the instructors, the students and their parents.

Office DEPOT. OfficeMax®

Benefits for education

- Continues education whether or not classrooms are open
- Works with LMSs – Google Classroom, Canvas, Blackboard, etc.
- OER materials preloaded for specific grades and classes
- Instructor’s dashboard for upload of documents, Zoom lectures, etc.
- Creates educational library in a virtual environment
- Supports multiple languages
- Offers students a responsive format for use anywhere, on any device
- Provides one workflow system for both print and digital content
- Print only what you need through workflow system

Doing the math

For schools & staff

- Print on-demand model
- No long-term commitments
- Use existing curriculum
- No training required
- Uploads for instructors

For parents & students

- Use any device, anywhere
- No new technology required
- Digital & print in identical format
- Readability on any device
- Protected URL for students

For immediate results

- Saves resources
- Saves time
- Creates consistent materials
- Offers one solution for both locations

Making the grade

Discover how Office Depot Digital Publishing for education offers a way to move forward with consistency and confidence.

Bringing together two solutions, Office Depot Digital Publishing for education gives instructors a single plan so they can focus on the most important thing – their students’ education.