Young MLS stars earn shot to impress

Andre Fernandez
Special to USA TODAY

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. – It didn't take long for Brenden Aaronson to bounce back after he was cut from the United States' Under-20 national soccer team's roster.

A year later, Aaronson is arguably the most improved player on U.S. men's national team coach Gregg Berhalter's radar.

Aaronson earned his first international cap in January and is coming off a stellar Major League Soccer season in which he made 23 starts and led the Philadelphia Union to the league's best record.

"When I think back to January when he made his national team debut to now, he's had a fantastic season of improving his performance almost weekly, so I think he's done a great job," Berhalter told reporters this past week.

Aaronson is part of a youth movement on the current U.S. roster camped in Fort Lauderdale in preparation for Wednesday night's friendly against El Salvador at Inter Miami FC's stadium.

USA is 17-1-5 all time against El Salvador and is unbeaten in the series since 1992, but El Salvador is fielding a much more experienced roster than the U.S., averaging 27 international caps per player.

Berhalter, a former defender on the U.S. national team during the 2002 World Cup who became USMNT coach in December 2018, put together a roster with 22 of its 24 players having played on MLS clubs this past year.

The average age of players in the U.S. camp is 22.5 years, and 14 players are eligible for the 2021 U.S. Under-23 Olympic team.

Players such as Aaronson and 23-year-old Jackson Yueill, a midfielder for the San Jose Earthquakes who played 90 minutes in the USA's 1-0 win over Costa Rica on Feb. 1, are among the crop of domestic-based players hoping to impress enough to land a spot during World Cup qualifying next September and perhaps for Qatar in 2022.

Walker Zimmerman (5) was the 2020 MLS defender of the year.

"I think that going into every single training session you want to impress coaches with the way you play, but I think playing together as a team is something you want to show this coaching staff," Aaronson said.

Berhalter spoke about MLS performance when mentioning several of his choices for the current squad that will face El Salvador.

Midfielder Frankie Amaya was replaced on the roster by Andres Perea after testing positive for COVID-19. Berhalter said it would depend on Amaya's continued success with FC Cincinnati as to whether he'd get another call back to the national team.

He also credited D.C. United goalkeeper Bill Hamid for being "the cornerstone of that organization year after year."

Paul Arriola, a 25-year-old winger for D.C. United since 2017 who played for Mexican club Tijuana for four years prior, is coming off a knee injury and one of the veterans in camp who Berhalter values for his experience.

Former coaches such as Jurgen Klinsmann often preferred European-based stars or European players with ties that made them eligible to play for the U.S.

Berhalter, who became the USMNT coach in December 2018 after brief stints by Bruce Arena and Dave Sarachan, appears to be putting more stock into MLS performances than in recent years, which players like 27-year-old defender Walker Zimmerman said is a sign of the growth of the league.

"MLS has gotten a lot better as a league in the eight seasons I've been a part of it and you're seeing a lot of the younger players able to step up and earn more minutes and really grow," said Zimmerman, who has 12 caps on the United States team and plays for Nashville SC.

"Guys that are in this camp have gotten a ton of minutes by the time they're 21 years old. It's important for those guys to be able to do that, and to see that happen in a league that is improving is also really important."

Under Klinsmann, the U.S. entered the 2014 World Cup with 10 of its 23 players based on MLS teams.

Although the U.S. did not qualify for the 2018 World Cup, Arriola, Darlington Nagbe and veterans Michael Bradley and Jozy Altidore – all of whom played on MLS teams at the time of qualifying – were expected to be on the national team.

Of the 38 players who have been called up to the national team by Berhalter in the past calendar year, 13 are currently on MLS clubs and seven others have played for MLS clubs in the past.

There are plenty of mainstays expected to be in Qatar who are standouts for international clubs like Chelsea's Christian Pulisic, Borussia Dortmund's Gio Reyna and Juventus' Weston McKennie.

But Aaronson, and dual-national players in camp such as Daryl Dike (Nigeria), Ayo Akinola (Canada), Efrain Alvarez (Mexico) and Julian Araujo (Mexico) – should they choose to play for the U.S. side down the road – could shape a younger U.S. roster with several players who began their senior level careers in MLS.

"It's exciting to see the talent that we have coming up through Europe and the MLS," Arriola said. "We have amazing young players, and I think the country should be excited for what's to come with the national team."

"The talent we have will push everyone to raise it another gear."

Crew to play Seattle Sounders in MLS Cup

Jacob Myers
The Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch
USA TODAY Network

COLUMBUS, Ohio – To be the champs, they will have to beat the champs.

The Crew will play the Seattle Sounders in the 2020 MLS Cup on Saturday at 8 p.m. ET at Mapfre Stadium after the Sounders beat Minnesota United 3-2 in the Western Conference final on Monday night in Seattle.

Down 2-1 in the waning minutes, forward Raul Ruidiaz scored in the 89th minute to tie the score and midfielder Gustav Svensson scored in the third minute of second-half stoppage time to stun the Loons in an instant classic.

Last November, the Sounders won the 2019 MLS Cup at home against Toronto FC, their second in franchise history. Led by attacking players Ruidiaz, Jordan Morris and Nico Lodeiro, the Sounders have been one of the favorites all season to win MLS Cup.

They would become the first team since the Los Angeles Galaxy in 2010-11 to win back-to-back titles.

The Crew and the Sounders haven't played since the final game before MLS shut down due to the coronavirus pandemic, way back on March 7. Gyasi Zardes scored a first-half goal and Ruidiaz scored a penalty kick in the second half of a thrilling 1-1 draw that felt like a potential preview of a league final.

Though the Sounders are the No. 2 seed in the West and the Crew are the No. 3 seed in the East, Columbus (1.78) finished with a higher points per game than Seattle (1.77) during the regular season, giving the Crew home-field advantage for the championship game.

The Sounders went down 2-0 in the 67th minute Monday, but a team with playoff experience to spare found a way to advance to the club's fourth MLS Cup in five seasons.

To advance to MLS Cup, the Sounders beat No. 7 seed Los Angeles FC and No. 6 seed FC Dallas before knocking out Minnesota.

The Crew advanced to their third-ever MLS Cup with a 1-0 win against the New England Revolution on Sunday at Mapfre Stadium. The Crew have not had to play a road game during the postseason after failing to win a road game during the regular season.

Crew midfielder Lucas Zelarayan dribbles against Revolution defender Matt Polster (8) on Sunday. KYLE ROBERTSON/THE COLUMBUS DISPATCH

While the front three for the Sounders might be regarded as the best in the league, the Crew believes they have plenty of firepower in Zardes, Lucas Zelarayan and Pedro Santos.

MLS Cup will be broadcast on Fox.

Proposed Threatened Status for Whitebark Pine

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is proposing to list the whitebark pine (Pinus albicaulis) as a threatened species under the Endangered Species Act, with a 4(d) rule. We have determined that designating critical habitat for the species is not prudent. Whitebark pine is slow-growing, long-lived, high-elevation tree found across western North America. The species is being impacted by white pine blister rust, a fungal disease, as well as synergistic and cumulative impacts with other stressors including mountain pine beetles, altered fire regimes, and climate change. The species' range spans 80,596,935 acres within the States of California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Wyoming, as well as Alberta and British Columbia, Canada. Approximately 88% of the species' range within the U.S. is federally owned or managed.

More information can be found at <http://www.regulations.gov>, reference docket number FWS-R6-ES-2019-0054. The Service invites public comment on the proposed rule for a 60-day period. After the public comment period, the Service will decide if the rule should be approved, revised, or withdrawn. This process encourages the participation of all interested parties, including the general public. Comments must be received on or before February 1, 2021. The Service will post all comments on <http://www.regulations.gov>. This generally means the agency will post any personal information provided through the process. Email or faxes will not be accepted.

Public hearings on this proposal must be requested by January 19, 2021, within 45 days of the proposed rule's publication. Public hearing requests should be sent to Tyler Abbott, Field Supervisor, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Wyoming Ecological Services Field Office, 334 Parsley Boulevard, Cheyenne, WY 82007.

Comments and materials we receive, as well as supporting documentation used in preparing this proposed rule, will be available for public inspection on <http://www.regulations.gov>, or by appointment, during normal business hours, at the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Wyoming Ecological Services Field Office. Young MLS stars earn shot to impress

Special to USA TODAY

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. – It didn't take long for Brenden Aaronson to bounce back after he was cut from the United States' Under-20 national soccer team's roster.

A year later, Aaronson is arguably the most improved player on U.S. men's national team coach Gregg Berhalter's radar.

Aaronson earned his first international cap in January and is coming off a stellar Major League Soccer season in which he made 23 starts and led the Philadelphia Union to the league's best record.

"When I think back to January when he made his national team debut to now, he's had a fantastic season of improving his performance almost weekly, so I think he's done a great job," Berhalter told reporters this past week.

Aaronson is part of a youth movement on the current U.S. roster camped in Fort Lauderdale in preparation for Wednesday night's friendly against El Salvador at Inter Miami FC's stadium.

USA is 17-1-5 all time against El Salvador and is unbeaten in the series since 1992, but El Salvador is fielding a much more experienced roster than the U.S., averaging 27 international caps per player.

Berhalter, a former defender on the U.S. national team during the 2002 World Cup who became USMNT coach in December 2018, put together a roster with 22 of its 24 players having played on MLS clubs this past year.

The average age of players in the U.S. camp is 22.5 years, and 14 players are eligible for the 2021 U.S. Under-23 Olympic team.

Players such as Aaronson and 23-year-old Jackson Yueill, a midfielder for the San Jose Earthquakes who played 90 minutes in the USA's 1-0 win over Costa Rica on Feb. 1, are among the crop of domestic-based players hoping to impress enough to land a spot during World Cup qualifying next September and perhaps for Qatar in 2022.

Walker Zimmerman (5) was the 2020 MLS defender of the year.

"I think that going into every single training session you want to impress coaches with the way you play, but I think playing together as a team is something you want to show this coaching staff," Aaronson said.

Berhalter spoke about MLS performance when mentioning several of his choices for the current squad that will face El Salvador.

Midfielder Frankie Amaya was replaced on the roster by Andres Perea after testing positive for COVID-19. Berhalter said it would depend on Amaya's continued success with FC Cincinnati as to whether he'd get another call back to the national team.

He also credited D.C. United goalkeeper Bill Hamid for being "the cornerstone of that organization year after year."

Paul Arriola, a 25-year-old winger for D.C. United since 2017 who played for Mexican club Tijuana for four years prior, is coming off a knee injury and one of the veterans in camp who Berhalter values for his experience.

Former coaches such as Jurgen Klinsmann often preferred European-based stars or European players with ties that made them eligible to play for the U.S.

Berhalter, who became the USMNT coach in December 2018 after brief stints by Bruce Arena and Dave Sarachan, appears to be putting more stock into MLS performances than in recent years, which players like 27-year-old defender Walker Zimmerman said is a sign of the growth of the league.

"MLS has gotten a lot better as a league in the eight seasons I've been a part of it and you're seeing a lot of the younger players able to step up and earn more minutes and really grow," said Zimmerman, who has 12 caps on the United States team and plays for Nashville SC.

"Guys that are in this camp have gotten a ton of minutes by the time they're 21 years old. It's important for those guys to be able to do that, and to see that happen in a league that is improving is also really important."

Under Klinsmann, the U.S. entered the 2014 World Cup with 10 of its 23 players based on MLS teams.

Although the U.S. did not qualify for the 2018 World Cup, Arriola, Darlington Nagbe and veterans Michael Bradley and Jozy Altidore – all of whom played on MLS teams at the time of qualifying – were expected to be on the national team.

Of the 38 players who have been called up to the national team by Berhalter in the past calendar year, 13 are currently on MLS clubs and seven others have played for MLS clubs in the past.

There are plenty of mainstays expected to be in Qatar who are standouts for international clubs like Chelsea's Christian Pulisic, Borussia Dortmund's Gio Reyna and Juventus' Weston McKennie.

But Aaronson, and dual-national players in camp such as Daryl Dike (Nigeria), Ayo Akinola (Canada), Efraim Alvarez (Mexico) and Julian Araujo (Mexico) – should they choose to play for the U.S. side down the road – could shape a younger U.S. roster with several players who began their senior level careers in MLS.

"It's exciting to see the talent that we have coming up through Europe and the MLS," Arriola said. "We have amazing young players, and I think the country should be excited for what's to come with the national team."

"The talent we have will push everyone to raise it another gear."

Crew to play Seattle Sounders in MLS Cup

Jacob Myers

The Columbus (Ohio) Dispatch
USA TODAY Network

COLUMBUS, Ohio – To be the champs, they will have to beat the champs.

The Crew will play the Seattle Sounders in the 2020 MLS Cup on Saturday at 8 p.m. ET at Mapfre Stadium after the Sounders beat Minnesota United 3-2 in the Western Conference final on Monday night in Seattle.

Down 2-1 in the waning minutes, forward Raul Ruidiaz scored in the 89th minute to tie the score and midfielder Gustav Svensson scored in the third minute of second-half stoppage time to stun the Loons in an instant classic.

Last November, the Sounders won the 2019 MLS Cup at home against Toronto FC, their second in franchise history. Led by attacking players Ruidiaz, Jordan Morris and Nico Lodeiro, the Sounders have been one of the favorites all season to win MLS Cup.

They would become the first team since the Los Angeles Galaxy in 2010-11 to win back-to-back titles.

The Crew and the Sounders haven't played since the final game before MLS shut down due to the coronavirus pandemic, way back on March 7. Gyasi Zardes scored a first-half goal and Ruidiaz scored a penalty kick in the second half of a thrilling 1-1 draw that felt like a potential preview of a league final.

Though the Sounders are the No. 2 seed in the West and the Crew are the No. 3 seed in the East, Columbus (1.78) finished with a higher points per game than Seattle (1.77) during the regular season, giving the Crew home-field advantage for the championship game.

The Sounders went down 2-0 in the 67th minute Monday, but a team with playoff experience to spare found a way to advance to the club's fourth MLS Cup in five seasons.

To advance to MLS Cup, the Sounders beat No. 7 seed Los Angeles FC and No. 6 seed FC Dallas before knocking out Minnesota.

The Crew advanced to their third-ever MLS Cup with a 1-0 win against the New England Revolution on Sunday at Mapfre Stadium. The Crew have not had to play a road game during the postseason after failing to win a road game during the regular season.

While the front three for the Sounders might be regarded as the best in the league, the Crew believes they have plenty of firepower in Zardes, Lucas Zelarayan and Pedro Santos.

MLS Cup will be broadcast on Fox.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Proposed Threatened Status for Whitebark Pine

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is proposing to list the whitebark pine (Pinus albicaulis) as a threatened species under the Endangered Species Act, with a 4(d) rule. We have determined that designating critical habitat for the species is not prudent. Whitebark pine is slow-growing, long-lived, high-elevation tree found across western North America. The species is being impacted by white pine blister rust, a fungal disease, as well as synergistic and cumulative impacts with other stressors including mountain pine beetles, altered fire regimes, and climate change. The species' range spans 80,596,935 acres within the States of California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Washington, Wyoming, as well as Alberta and British Columbia, Canada. Approximately 88% of the species' range within the U.S. is federally owned or managed.

More information can be found at <http://www.regulations.gov>, reference docket number FWS-R6-ES-2019-0054. The Service invites public comment on the proposed rule for a 60-day period. After the public comment period, the Service will decide if the rule should be approved, revised, or withdrawn. This process encourages the participation of all interested parties, including the general public. Comments must be received on or before February 1, 2021. The Service will post all comments on <http://www.regulations.gov>. This generally means the agency will post any personal information provided through the process. Email or faxes will not be accepted.

Public hearings on this proposal must be requested by January 19, 2021, within 45 days of the proposed rule's publication. Public hearing requests should be sent to Tyler Abbott, Field Supervisor, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Wyoming Ecological Services Field Office, 334 Parsley Boulevard, Cheyenne, WY 82007.
