Laird finally wins Shriners in playoff

Steve DiMeglio
 Golfweek | USA TODAY Network

LAS VEGAS – The third time proved to be the charm for Martin Laird.

After failing to end matters on the 72nd hole and then again on the first playoff hole, Laird knocked in a 23-foot putt for birdie on the second extra hole to win the Shriners Hospitals for Children Open in Sunday's fading light at TPC Summerlin.

Laird, who shared the overnight lead and led by three at the turn, made an astounding par on the 17th hole in regulation to protect his one-shot lead but missed his par attempt on the 72nd hole when 28 feet and headed to a playoff against Austin Cook and Matthew Wolff.

On the first extra hole at the par-4 18th hole, Laird had a chance to end the tournament but his attempt from 31 feet just grazed the hole. But after Cook and Wolff both missed their birdie attempts on the 195-yard par-3 17th, Laird rolled in his winner.

The win was his first in seven years and his second Shriners title; in 2009 he won in a playoff on the 18th hole. He has four PGA Tour titles. Laird, playing on a sponsor's exemption, will certainly move up from his ranking of 358 in the world.

"It's been a while, so I've been working hard. Seven years since my last one," Laird said. "Probably feel like now my game is really as good as it has been. Been playing well the last few weeks; just haven't had the results."

"But I love it here. I'm going to really enjoy this one. I can't wait to go back and see my kids and my wife and celebrate with them."

Laird (68), Cook (66) and Wolff (66) ended regulation at 23-under 261.

"Overall this is the best finish in three years since the win," Cook said of his 2017 victory in the RMC Classic. "Game is on the right track. It's kind of an emotional day. It's been such a grind to get back here. Just being back in the moment, I loved it, and I can't wait to do it again."

Wolff, 21, was trying to become the youngest multiple winner on the PGA Tour since Sergio Garcia in 2001. Wolff had three eagles in a five-hole stretch en route to a 61 in the third round and eagled the 16th Sunday to give himself a chance.

Abraham Ancer closed with a 67 to finish fourth, three shots back.

USA TODAY NETWORK HEISMAN TROPHY SURVEY

The top offensive stars from the presumed College Football Playoff favorites made the most of their opportunity in prime time Saturday. Clemson's Trevor Lawrence again leads the weekly USA TODAY Network Heisman survey after his Tigers pulled away from Miami. Lawrence received 59 total points and was voted first by 18 of the 22 official Heisman electors employed by USA TODAY Network properties participating in the weekly survey. Through four games, Lawrence has connected on a 72.4% completion rate for 1,140 yards, 10 touchdowns and no picks. He also has four rushing scores. Jones closed the gap on Lawrence in the survey with 26 points, including a couple of first-place mentions. Jones has a better completion percentage of 79.5%, with 1,101 yards and eight TD tosses.

NETWORK HEISMAN SURVEY

Clemson's Trevor Lawrence continues to hold the lead in the weekly USA TODAY Network Heisman survey. He tossed five more TD passes last week as the Tigers routed Georgia Tech, though he did throw his first interception of the season. Alabama's Mac Jones was every bit as impressive in the win against Georgia. He moved a few points closer to Lawrence and added three first-place votes. Jones' first pass was picked off, but he bounced back to add four TDs.

Dueling images: WNBA, soccer

Scott Gleeson

USA TODAY

Seattle Storm guard Sue Bird said U.S. women's soccer players are better supported by fans because of their perception as "cute little white girls," in contrast to less popular WNBA players.

"Even though we're female athletes playing at a high level, our worlds – the soccer world and the basketball world are just totally different," Bird told CNN in an interview Sunday. "To be blunt it's the demographic of who's playing. Women's soccer players generally are cute little white girls while WNBA players, we're all shapes and sizes: a lot of Black, gay, tall women. There's maybe an intimidation factor and people are quick to judge it and put it down."

Bird, a 40-year-old veteran who won her fourth WNBA title this month with the Storm, has been dating retired U.S. soccer star Megan Rapinoe since 2017. Bird spent a majority of her professional career keeping her sexual orientation private before publicly coming out in 2017.

Bird

Bird blamed a societal stereotype and noted the WNBA.

"It's how society and how the outside world is willing to accept the cute girl next door, but not willing to accept, or embrace, or not judge these basketball players who are tall, Black, gay," Bird said. "That is where the issue is. Where I feel like I've learned throughout that process is you have to be who you are. You have to be true to who you are and authentic."
