Region 4 ESC is pleased to announce the use of a new online bidding system for the procurement of goods and services. All suppliers interested in doing business with Region 4 ESC must register with this new system to receive communications when bid events are issued relating to your goods and services. Registration is free and can be completed by visiting: <https://region4esc.iqwave.net/>.

If you have already registered on the new system, thank you!

Once registered, suppliers will be able to receive email notifications when a new bid event matching their commodities has been issued. Suppliers will also have the ability to log in to this system to view and respond to bid events issued by Region 4 ESC.

Note: If you are registered with any other agency using the IWT bidding system, you will not be able to reuse a previous user login name. You must create a unique user login name during registration. We recommend using a format like abcsupplies_customer, where customer is a short version of the agency you are registering with.

NASCAR CUP SERIES POCONO WINNERS AND LOSERS

Chase Briscoe tightens playoff bubble with win

Nick Gray

The Nashville Tennessean | USA TODAY NETWORK

Chase Briscoe is in the NASCAR Cup Series playoffs.

Briscoe managed fuel concerns and held off Denny Hamlin and Ryan Blaney to win The Great American Getaway 400 race on June 22 at Pocono Raceway in Pennsylvania.

He is the 11th driver to win this season, and he secured a playoff berth with nine races to go in the regular season.

The winners and losers from Pocono:

Winner: Chase Briscoe

Welcome to Joe Gibbs Racing, Chase Briscoe.

He earned his first win as JGR driver at Pocono, locking into the playoffs after entering the weekend in a semi-tenuous position ahead of the playoff cutline. Briscoe and his No. 19 Toyota team navigated the strategy well enough to take the lead late in Stage 2, then kept the lead through the final stage on the final green flag stop and saving enough fuel.

Briscoe had to win the final regular-season race at Darlington last season to make the playoffs.

Winner: Amazon Prime Video's first year of NASCAR coverage

Prime Video's coverage in year one was a refreshing step forward, from the pre- and-post race coverage by Danielle Trotta, Carl Edwards and Corey Lajoie with already-created traditions to the professional in-race coverage led by Adam Alexander, Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Steve Letarte.

After three months of Fox's coverage that frankly bottomed out in 2025 with copious mistakes in production and directing along with a broadcast booth that hasn't quite clicked, Prime Video's more serious tone and style has been a refreshing change. Prime Video ensured viewers wouldn't miss a green flag lap with side-by-side coverage during commercials, and features like the Burn Bar to visually explain fuel mileage enhanced coverage.

Earnhardt and Letarte have a rapport that no one else along NASCAR's TV coverage has in 2025, which given their professional history and experience on the mic from NBC is no surprise. Alexander is a pro (even if sometimes too positive) and has shown an ability to meet the moment this season on Prime Video and as the lead Xfinity Series voice on the CW.

The three-man booth moves with coverage to TNT, and that's a good thing. If Prime Video's coverage can help elevate TNT, NBC and Fox's work by comparison, that's a good thing.

Losers: Bubba Wallace's weekend

Bubba Wallace was encouraged after being in the top five on the practice charts June 21. That encouragement soon ended. Wallace did not make a qualifying run later in the day after his car wouldn't start, forcing him to start outside the top 30. He didn't make much ground up in the first 55 laps in the race before a brakes issue cut a tire down and forced him hard into the wall in the tunnel turn. Wallace finished 36th, a did not finish at a bad time.

Wallace will again be near the playoff bubble for the third straight season, with no wins and the wild-card available spots shrinking. He leaves Pocono in 15th in the playoff picture, 29 points ahead of 17th-place Ryan Preece.

Losers: Brad Keselowski (and crew chief Jeremy Bullins)

Brad Keselowski had a very good car in Pocono, but two unfortunate strategy moments set the No. 6 team back.

Keselowski pitted from the lead while pit road was closed in Stage 2, forcing him to the rear of the field. The miscommunication occurred with crew chief Jeremy Bullins not being aware pit road was not open.

Keselowski then was set up for the final green flag stop to take less fuel than anyone else, advancing to the cusp of the top 10 with a better fuel and tires situation. But before he planned to come in for the final stop, a caution came out due to a spin. He again lost a great deal of track position ahead of the final 35 laps, and his chances of winning (or finishing high up) were done.

Keselowski had to attempt to walk the fine line given that the No. 6 Ford needs a win to make the playoffs. Getting in via points is not an option.

But the speed is there. Can the strategy and the luck follow at some point over the next couple of months?

Road America a great spot for Palou's IndyCar party

Dave Kallmann

Milwaukee Journal Sentinel

USA TODAY NETWORK

ELKHART LAKE, WI – The Spanish winner was singing an American country song only slightly off key and nearly crashed on the cool-down lap. The third-place finisher was chugging a beer gifted by a fan.

Just another race on the NTT IndyCar Series, and just another weekend at Road America, right?

In some ways, yes.

A lush, sprawling property with 4 miles of racetrack, Road America has a reputation for attracting a fun-loving crowd and also for providing a world-class experience for drivers.

And as for Alex Palou, yeah, this year he's pretty hard to beat in 2025.

The 28-year-old spent the morning of June 22 second-guessing tire strategy, got grumpy and confused during a rough-and-tumble race, found some good luck along the way and made the XPEL Grand Prix his sixth victory in nine NTT IndyCar Series races.

"We were looking really bad at the beginning, then really good, then terrible, then really good," said Palou, who led six of the 55 laps.

Palou's latest victory was nowhere near a sure thing. He'd missed out on winning the pole a day earlier, edged by rookie Louis Foster, then got eaten up on the start by drivers who'd chosen the grippier alternate tires. Cautions early set up enough divergent pit strategies that it was impossible to guess which might work. Chip Ganassi Racing Honda teammate Scott Dixon stopped early to try to take advantage of his ability to stretch fuel and led a race-high 27 of 55 laps.

Then throw in the chaos on a 96-degree day. This race included Penske-on-Penske violence with Josef Newgarden banging wheels with both Will Power and Scott McLaughlin before crashing on his own. Sting Ray Robb got pushed off on his way to Turn 5 and crashed. Conor Daly used up all the runoff there and then some. Christian Lundgaard spun in Canada Corner and somehow escaped with no damage. Officials called seven penalties for avoidable contact, blocking and failing to follow directions.

Fortunately the track stayed fairly clean and drivers were able to pull off line to make passes or recover.

Palou became the first Indy-car driver to win three times at Road America since Mario Andretti (1983, 1984, 1987) and Michael Andretti (1990, 1991, 1996) did in the CART era.

He also became the first driver to win six times in a season since Power in 2011. He and Kyle Kirkwood are the first two drivers to have combined to win the first nine races of a season since Johnny Rutherford and Bobby Unser in 1980.

If Palou goes on to win a fourth championship, days like this one will be a big part. He really didn't seem like he had a chance until midway through the race and didn't even necessarily seem like the favorite when he was chasing Dixon because of the doubt over fuel.

Yet there Palou was when it mattered. He survived the jostling early, had the yellow flags and pit strategy work his way and had enough speed and enough of a lead at the end.

Palou had the fuel to drive to victory lane, which surprised team manager Barry Wanser. He surprised his crew with a few lines from the song "Red Solo Cup." Palou had studied the lyrics before the race to honor a first-time sponsor if the opportunity came.

"I think the radio ... maybe with the interference on the radio maybe it didn't sound very good," Palou said. "But in my head it sounded amazing."

By then the party had been in full swing for hours.
